Part B. CV SUMMARY (max. 5000 characters, including spaces)

Martín-Aranda is FULL PROFESSOR, First Vicechancellor of UNED, Vicechancellor of Research. She was Vicechancellor of evaluation procedures and Dean of Environmental Sciences, at UNED. She was Coordinator of Studies and Programmes at Universidad

Internacional Menéndez Pelayo (UIMP). Her research focuses on UNDERSTANDING STRUCTURE-PERFORMANCE relationships in catalysis for Fine Chemical preparation under sustainable alternative methodologies.

METHODOLOGY:

A variety of physicochemical techniques have been used (IR, TG-thermal analysis coupled with Mass Spectrometry, ATD, DSC, determination of the textural properties of solids by N₂ or CO₂ adsorption, XRD, UV-visible spectroscopy, Zeta potential measurement, gas chromatography) and others (RAMAN, solid NMR).

COMPLEMENTARY COLLABORATIONS (International)

1. Prof. J. Cejka, Director of the Department of Synthesis and Catalysis at J. Heyrovsky Institute of Physical Chemistry, (Prague, Czech Republic)
2. Prof. M. Ziolek, Director of the Department of Heterogeneous Catalysis at Chemistry Faculty at Adam Mickiewicz University (Poznan, Poland).
3. Prof. K. Yeung, Universidad de Ciencia y Tecnología de Hong Kong
4. Prof. Sofia Ya Hsuan Liou, Universidad Nacional de Taiwan
5. Prof. IE Wachs, Universidad de Lehigh, PA, USA

SYSTEMS

30 years of experience in the synthesis and characterization of porous solids and in their applications in the preparation of high added value products. Extensive work on the structure and reactivity of solid catalysts (coals, clays, zeolites, oxides, mesoporous materials) for Fine Chemistry controlling the selectivity, avoiding the formation of toxic byproducts and pollutants.

REACTIONS/SYNTHESSES

-We explore the preparation, characterization and application of new catalysts and green methodologies of environmentally synthesis of high value products under liquid phase reactions.
-Environmental catalysis: reaction pathway of fine and bulk chemistry reactions; e.g., Knoevenagel condensation, Michael addition, Claisen Schmidt condensation, Friedlander reaction.

INTERNATIONALIZATION AND NETWORKING

To FOSTER COMPLEMENTARITY IN RESEARCH through international and national collaboration and organizing events to entangle research groups, like the Chezc-Italian-Spanish Conference series (which Martín-Aranda is co-founded); Martín-Arandas' vision is reflected in the constant cooperation and Erasmus student exchange for Master and PhD studies with several universities and companies.
